

THE LONDON TEXTILE FAIR

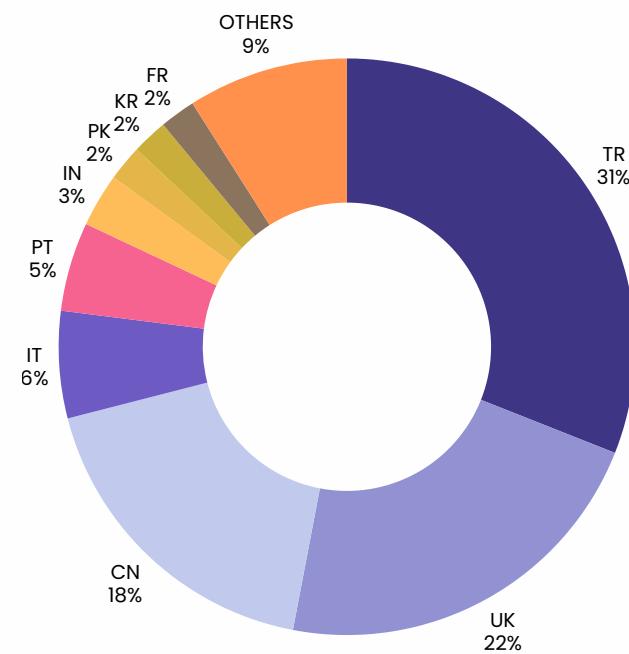

SHOW REPORT JANUARY 2026

The London Textile Fair returned to the Business Design Centre on 13–14 January 2026, bringing together the global textile community for two inspiring days of sourcing, networking, and creativity. Over 320 exhibitors presented their latest collections across fabrics, accessories, print design, vintage, and garments, reinforcing TLTF's position as a key platform for the fashion and textile industry.

The show welcomed 3,629 visitors, including designers, buyers, and industry professionals, all eager to discover new collections, connect with suppliers, and explore upcoming trends. Highlights included the Trend Forum and an engaging seminar programme, offering valuable insight into colour, fabric innovation, and market intelligence for Spring/Summer 2027.

Exhibitors' Country

Exhibitors came from 22 countries, with strong representation from Turkey, the UK, China, Italy, France, Portugal, India, Pakistan, and more, highlighting TLTF's global reach.

This diverse showcase reinforced the fair's reputation as a truly international sourcing destination, giving buyers access to both heritage expertise and innovative, sustainable solutions.

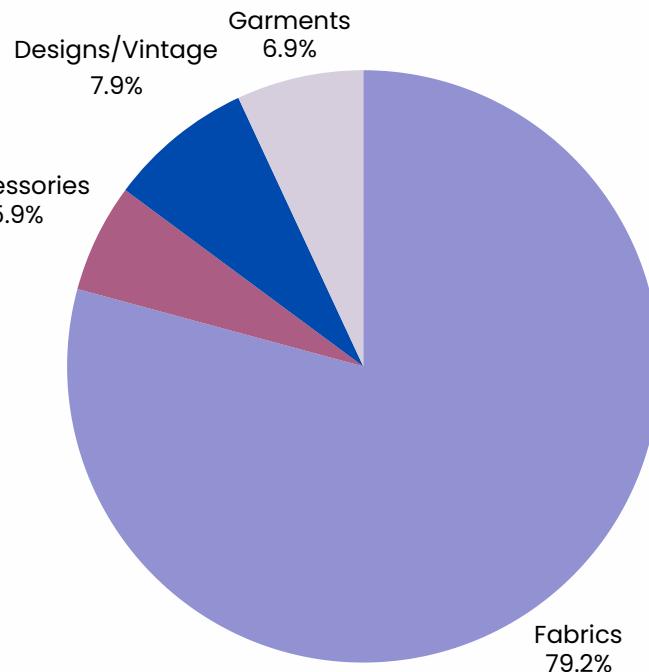

Collections

At the January 2026 edition of TLTF, the exhibitor composition highlighted the fair's strong focus on fabrics, which represented 80% of the collections on display.

Alongside this, 6% of exhibitors presented fashion accessories, while 7% showcased vintage and print design collections, offering creative inspiration for fashion and interiors.

Completing the mix, 7% of exhibitors were dedicated to garments, reflecting the fair's growing role as a comprehensive sourcing hub for the entire textile and fashion supply chain.

The China Pavilion featured a wide array of high-quality textiles, garments, and accessories. Exhibitors showcased innovation, sustainability, and advanced manufacturing, presenting everything from apparel fabrics and eco-friendly solutions to creative, trend-led designs, underscoring their strong global presence in the fashion supply chain.

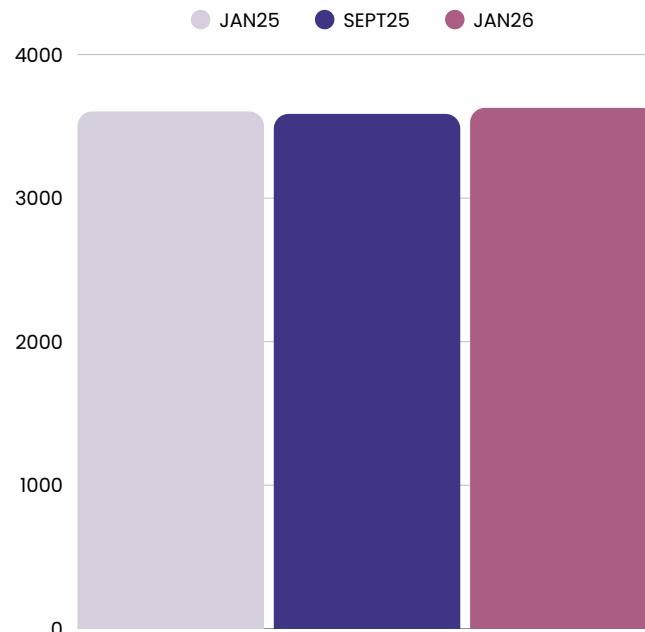

Visitors

At TLTF January 2026, industry professionals included representatives from nearly all leading UK fashion brands and designers. With 3629 visitors in 2 days, 95% coming from the UK, the fair primarily drew a domestic audience, ranging from major high-street retailers to independent boutiques across womenswear, menswear, and childrenswear.

Among the visitors were:

Seminars at TLTF

The January 2026 edition of TLTF marked the successful return of seminars, curated by The Colourful as part of the Design Vision programme.

Over two days, leading trend forecasters shared insights for SS2027, covering colour, print, pattern, fabric innovation, and seasonal silhouettes. The sessions attracted designers, buyers, and brand representatives eager for creative inspiration and practical guidance for their upcoming collections.

The seminars also offered an interactive space for discussion, enabling visitors to engage with speakers and explore the intersection of global trends with sustainability, technology, and creativity.
